

International Relocation from London Sydney

The Candidate

A contingent recruiter with 6 years of experience hiring Tech GRC, Information Security and Data Privacy professional in the London market looking to relocate to Sydney.

Strong billing record (£450k pa) and a keen interest in a firm with high performers and an established reputation in the market. Additionally, he needed a social environment.

The Challenge

As a UK-based R2R recruiter used to work on client mandates, we needed to quickly pivot to take a candidate to market in a different geography and show the candidate we had the network to be successful.

The Solution

Our network in Sydney falls into two groups: firms where ex-colleagues now find themselves working either in Australia or internationally and firms we have done business with in other jurisdictions.

Combining the two, we were able to provide introductions to three firms, all working in the right space.

The Result

Two of these introductions led to final interviews, and one led to an offer that was accepted to lead cyber security hiring for their Sydney office. The firm is an established brand in the Australian market, with offices in Sydney, Melbourne, and Brisbane.
